

Dr. Ashok K. Srivastava
M.A., M.Phil., Ph.D.
Professor and Head of Division
Specialization: Educational Psychology

Ashok K. Srivastava, Ph.D., works as a Professor of Educational Psychology in the National Council of Educational Research and Training (NCERT), New Delhi, India. He is currently Head of Division of Educational Research and Publication Division in NCERT.

During his academic career spanning over more than two and half decades, Professor Srivastava has contributed more than 40 research papers/articles to national/ international journals and books. He has recently authored a book 'Rethinking Intelligence: Conceptualizing Human Competence in Cultural Context' (2007, Concept Publications, New Delhi). Some of his recent publications have appeared in Handbook of Psychology in India (2011, Oxford University Press), Emotional Intelligence: Theoretical and Cultural Perspectives (2008, Nova Publishers, New York), The International Handbook of Creativity (2006, Cambridge University Press), Educational Research for Policy and Practice (2004, Springer, The Netherlands), International Handbook of Educational Research in the Asia-Pacific Region (2003, Kluwer Academic Press, Dordrecht, The Netherlands), New Directions in Cross-Cultural Psychology (2002, Polish Psychological Association, Warszawa), Psychology and Developing Societies (2001, 1995, 1989, Sage Publications, New Delhi), Roeper Review (2000, Michigan), Merging Past, Present and Future in Cross-Cultural Psychology (1999, Swets and Zeitlinger, Lisse, The Netherlands), and International Journal of Group Tensions (1997, New York). Professor Srivastava contributed a review chapter on Dynamics of Schooling to the Sixth Survey of Research in Psychology (ICSSR, New Delhi). He is one of the authors who developed a set of five modules on 'Making School Successful' (2011) published by IIEP, Paris and NUEPA, New Delhi.

Professor Srivastava is interested in the study human strengths and virtues, and school processes in cultural contexts. He can be reached at ashokksrivastava@yahoo.com, or ashokksrivastava@gmail.co